CHILDREN'S BOX PARTY
EAGERLY ANTICIPATED

A most eagerly anticipated event is the children's box party, which will be given by Mrs. Randolph Chears at the Orpheum theatre on Saturday afternoon, March 4. In honor of the guests, the little daughter, Virginia Randolph Chears, the party had been planned for earlier in the season but was postponed on account of the influenza situation.

Entertainments

UNIQUE ENTERTAINMENT GIVEN BY REX CLUB

One of the most unique and thoroughly enjoyable affairs ever given by members of the Rex club was the George Washington ball on Thursday evening, when about 125 guests had the pleasure of being present.

In keeping with the occasion, a patriotic color motif was artistically employed. The ballroom was decorated with palms and flags, and Mrs. George and Mrs. M. Washington having a special place of honor above the stage.

The guests were graciously welcomed by the members of the reception committee, including Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Hille, the latter wearing a black lace over gold cloth. Mr. and Mrs. Julius Goodman, the latter wearing pale blue tulle with silver trimmings. Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Hille, the latter wearing yellow chiffon. Mr. and Mrs. Leo Strauss, the latter wearing brown tulle over gold cloth. Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hille, the latter wearing blue satin brocade in silver, and Mr. J. W. Ashner.

Shortly after the grand march, which took place at 8:30 o'clock, an artistic program, which had been planned by members of the entertainment committee as a surprise for the guests, was presented, introducing several unique features.

The first feature was a dance, in which the men were asked to select their partners in a new way. The ladies were grouped on the stage and the curtain raised just high enough to display their dainty slippers, from which red, white and blue ribbons radiated to the front of the stage. Each man chose a ribbon, discovering the identity of his partner after the curtain had been raised.

The next feature was a dance through a storm of confetti, under red, white and blue lights, making a beautiful patriotic carnival scene.

Under the white lights the confetti resembled softly falling snow, while the blue lights gave a lovely moonlight effect and the crimson glow created the happy carnival atmosphere. Following this the guests were invited to view two pictures, presented in a large frame upon the stage. The first introduced Washington, the boy, dressed by one of the season's charming debutantes, Miss Ruth Goodman, discovered by his father (posed by Mr. Milton Dreyfus) in the act of cutting down the famous cherry tree, while the second picture showed the father forgiving his son. The program closed with a delightful, humorous talk by Mr. Milton Dreyfus as a minute man.

All of the features were cleverly presented and were enthusiastically received.

Following the program a delicious supper menu was served in the dining room, where the table was prettily decorated with bows of scarlet tulle and blue satin ribbons resting on the snowy cloth, and carrying out the patriotic color motif of the evening. To each of the ladies present was presented a satin tri-color box holding red, white and blue mints.

MRS. BOND ENTERTAINS FOR LITTLE DAUGHTER

Mrs. Giles Bond entertained on Friday afternoon with an unusually delightful birthday party in honor of her little daughter, Zona, who was celebrating her seventh birthday anniversary. The event had been planned for Jan. 27, but was postponed until a month later on account of the influenza situation at that time.

Mrs. Bond was assisted in entertaining by Mrs. Hill Bond and the mothers of the little guests also assisted in making the afternoon pleasant for them.

Merry games were played and a most enjoyable feature was the hunt for hidden treasures, Japanese wonder boxes, which had been hidden about the rooms. Favors presented to the little guests also were dolls for the girls and kites for the boys.

At the conclusion of the afternoon the children enjoyed a feast of ice cream and cake, the table in the dining room being prettily decorated with pink roses and the birthday cake with pink, lighted tapers.

The little honoree was daintily gowned for the afternoon in white net over blue silk.

The guest list included about 50 children, the name as little Miss Bond.

MRS. TULLY HOSTESS AT PRETTY PLANNED AFFAIR

One of the most delightful affairs of the week was the reception and tea given on Thursday afternoon by Mrs. Bartlett Tully in her home on Union avenue.

The rooms were decorated in spring flowers and ferns, which were also effectively arranged in baskets on the daintily appointed tea table, over which Mrs. Charles Kellogg and Mrs. Robert Lockwood presided.

Assisting Mrs. Tully in receiving her guests were: Mrs. Calvin Graves, Mrs. Frank Dale Thompson, formerly Miss June May, Mrs. Claude Tully, and Mrs. Thomas McKnight.

Mothers, Look Who's Here—

Billy Boy, Oliver Twist,

Middy and Other New Ones

Did We Say New Ones? Yes, Indeed!

Just received them—and we think they're about the smartest wash togs ever designed. We have reason to believe that a mother's hand and a mother's pride must have been somewhere back of the fashioning of these Tub Suits—for they have that air of distinction that mothers like so well.

Mannish! Yes, but with a touch of feminine grace that makes them all the more to be desired.

We might use reams in praise of them, but the Suits stand out above our best efforts to describe them.

No size has been forgotten from the little toddler to the sturdy, manly boy of eight.

We know you'll enjoy seeing them.
